Key points

• Q4 FY2026 revenue of $57.0 billion (37% y/y) versus consensus $56.4 billion; non-GAAP EPS $1.35 versus $1.31 consensus.

• Data Center remains supply constrained; HBM and CoWoS allocations for 2026 are fully committed.

• Guidance for Q1 FY2027 is $41.4 billion ±2%; the implied sequential growth is the slowest in nine quarters.

• China-related revenue is now less than 5% of Data Center after the export-licence charge; incremental restrictions are a smaller risk than a year ago.

Our view

We remain constructive on NVIDIA. Data Center grew 41% year over year on demand for the Blackwell Ultra and Rubin platforms from cloud service providers and sovereign customers, and we see several more quarters of above-consensus growth. The market, in our view, is underestimating the durability of this cycle.

Management's commentary was confident on demand but vague on margins. We cut our estimates: see the table below. Our rating is relative to our Semiconductors coverage and our price target horizon is 12-month.

Estimates

	FY2025A	FY2026A	FY2027E
Revenue ($bn)	124.2	170.7	235.5
EPS (GAAP)	$2.75	$3.70	$5.23
P/E at current price	70.6x	52.5x	37.2x
Dividend per share	$0.04	$0.04	$0.04

EPS in this table is on a GAAP basis; the company reports a non-GAAP figure as its headline. Fiscal years are the company's.

Valuation

Our $240 price target is based on 46x our FY2027 EPS estimate, a premium to the stock's three-year average multiple, cross-checked with a DCF (WACC 7.6%, terminal growth 3.1%).

Risks to our view

• Hyperscaler capex digestion

• Custom silicon displaces merchant GPUs faster than expected

• Further export restrictions
