Microsoft Corporation

Microsoft announces Chief Financial Officer transition

REDMOND, WASHINGTON — February 17, 2026 —

Microsoft Corp. today announced that Thomas Keller, executive vice president and chief financial officer, will step down from the role effective April 30, 2026 after six years, and will remain with the company in an advisory capacity through the end of fiscal 2026. Grace Lindqvist, currently corporate vice president, finance for the Cloud + AI group, will become chief financial officer on May 1, 2026 and will report to Elena Marsh, chief executive officer.

“Thomas Keller has been an outstanding partner through a period of extraordinary investment and growth,” said Elena Marsh. “Grace Lindqvist brings deep knowledge of our cloud economics and capital planning, and I am delighted she will lead our finance organization.”

The transition does not change the company's financial outlook, which will be discussed on the fiscal third-quarter earnings call in April.

Forward-Looking Statements

This release contains forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, including statements about Microsoft's outlook, product plans, capital expenditures and capital return. These statements involve risks and uncertainties, and actual results may differ materially. Factors that could cause results to differ include those described under 'Risk Factors' in the Company's most recent Annual Report on Form 10-K and subsequent Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q. The Company undertakes no obligation to update forward-looking statements.

About Microsoft

Microsoft enables digital transformation for the era of an intelligent cloud and an intelligent edge. Its mission is to empower every person and every organization on the planet to achieve more. The Company's fiscal year ends June 30.

Contacts

Investor Relations: Jonathan Pryce, investor_relations@microsoft.com
Media: press@microsoft.com